2023 高考题型专练,小题抢分卷

语(二) 英

语法填空

A

All through school, I had only one close friend. We spent years together, 1 (essential) joined at the hip. But then Greg moved away, and 2 would take more than 50 years to bring us together again.

3 children, Greg and I dove into everything with passion. We raced our bikes and illustrated our own comic books. We even became attracted to the same blonde girl from around the corner, a sixth-grader named Joanne, 4 barely knew we existed.

The last time I saw Greg was sometime in 1966. I can't recall saying goodbye before he moved.

But then, a few summers ago, I saw a familiar woman. "Excuse me. Would your name happen to be Joanne?"

"Uh, yes...," she said. She didn't recognize me until I explained who I was. We hadn't exchanged more 5 a few dozen words in our entire lifetime. "Have you stayed in touch with Greg?" she asked. I was surprised she even knew of our friendship.

"No. I haven't," I admitted. "I wish I had."

Back at the cabin I checked my messages. I glanced at one email, and then read it from start to finish. The email was from Greg.

答题栏

题号	答案
1
2
3
4
5

抢分笔讠 ———	3
		-
		-
		-
		-
		-
		-
		-
		-

Greg 6 (track) me down through social media. He was	答题栏
now married, had two children and had become a musician and	题号	答案 entrepreneur(企业家). We exchanged several emails before	6
connecting by phone. A month later, my wife and I drove to	7
meet Greg and his family.	9
Standing at his front door, I felt unsure of what to say or do.	10
	11
So much time had passed. But after a few hugs and several	12
(introduce), the years dissolved as we exchanged stories about our	13 lives. I had brought along the only picture I could find 8	抢分笔记 (contain) the two of us from my sixth birthday. As he gazed at the photo, Greg handed me a small, old card: Invitation to my sixth birthday party, "From Donnie", 9 (sign) in faded blue crayon.
There were a few other keepsakes(纪念品) shared that evening, but none were as10_ (meaning) as the invitation and the snapshot, companion pieces stored apart and saved for the reunion of two old friends.
В
With the days 11 (grow) colder, Pasang has made preparations for the winter by purchasing 12 generous amount of natural gas to warm his home.
"In the past, we burned cattle dung(牛粪) for heating.
The rooms would be covered with dust, and the sky would sometimes get gray," said Pasang, a resident of Lhasa, capital of southwest China's Tibet Autonomous Region.
His home was connected by natural gas pipelines seven years ago. "With the gas, my home is warmer, and we are also contributing 13 bluer skies," he said.
【题型专练 B・ 英语(二) 第 2 页(共 4 页) =	老高考】

Now, the signature blue skies dotted with white clouds not	答题栏
only give local people a breath of fresh air but are also a vital	题号	答案
part of the region's charm for visitors from home and abroad.	14
	15
The wide use of natural gas is one of the keys behind the	16 clean air in Tibet. In Lhasa's case, so far natural gas14_	17
(adopt) for heating in more than 90 percent of its urban area,	18
said a local company in charge of natural gas supplies.	20
Amid the country's boom of new energy vehicles (NEVs),	抢分笔记	,
Tibet is also popularizing NEVs while phasing out(淘汰) older cars with high pollution and high energy15_(consume).
Electric cars are also gaining 16 (popular) for their eco-friendly features and lower costs. Penpa, another resident in Lhasa, said he and many of his friends have replaced their traditional vehicles with electric ones. "Everyone should make an effort 17 (keep) the air clear in Lhasa," Penpa said.
Atop a mountain over 5,000 meters above sea level, the Ali observatory—more than 1,400 km from Lhasa—is still frequented by astronomy lovers 18 brave(勇敢面对) a zigzagging road to get a much 19 (close) look at the stars.
Zhou Yunhe, director of the observatory, said more than 3,100 tourists have visited the observatory since the turn of the year.
Despite the impact of COVID-19, Tibet received 36.89 million tourists in the first three20_(quarter) this year, up 15.2 percent year on year, and tourism revenue surged 26.6 percent, official data showed.

Among all the sports, I have a prefer for table tennis. I got to know table tennis at the age of ten in 2014—the year as I watched a table tennis match on TV. It was such competitive that I couldn't move my eyes away. From then on, I made as much effort as possible to practise playing them.

Table tennis is an absolutely fantastic sport. Apart building up my body, it can strengthen my willpower as well. Another major factor is that it brings the whole body into action and I must react swiftly when played table tennis, which is really a challenge. In an addition, table tennis provided me with more chances to make friends and together we enjoy ourselves to the utmost. Table tennis is such an attractively sport that I expect more and more people to taking part in the exercise.

В

When seeing Suzy Khan for a first time, I knew I ought to helping her. She was real small for her age of 12. The boys in my class often joked about her and laughed their head off. She would open a book, pretending read, with tears were dropping on the open page.

All I knew was that she was an orphan from Africa. She was adopted by an old couple in town which decided that the best way of her to learn American ways of life was to be with American kids. I look down at this tiny girl and promised me that somehow I would help her.

抢分笔记