The Irish have celebrated St. Patrick’s Day on March 17 every year for over 1,000 years. On this day, Irish families would attend church in the morning and celebrate in the afternoon.

Patrick, born in the UK, was brought to Ireland at the age of 16. He was thought to bring Christianity to its people. During the centuries after Patrick’s death that is believed to be on March 17,461, the story of his life became popular in the Irish culture.

However, the first St. Patrick’s Day parade(游行) took place not in Ireland but in America. Records show that a St. Patrick’s Day parade was held on March 17, 1601 in Florida. More than a century later, homesick Irish soldiers serving in the English army marched in New York City on March 17, 1772 to honor the Irish saint(圣人). Interest in the St. Patrick’s Day parades in New York City, Boston and other early American cities grew from there. In 1848, several New York Irish societies decided to unite their parades to form one official New York City St. Patrick’s Day Parade.

Today, the parade is the world’s oldest parade and the largest in the United States. Each year, nearly 3 million people watch the parade, which takes more than five hours. In 2020, the New York City parade was one of the first major city events that were canceled as a result of the COVID-19 pandemic(流行病) and people are still not allowed to attend it this year.

Although North America is home to the largest one, St. Patrick’s Day is also celebrated around the world, including Japan, Singapore and Russia. In 1995, the Irish government began to use interest in St. Patrick’s Day to drive tourism and show Ireland and Irish culture to the rest of the world.

On Wednesday, The International Olympic Committee (IOC) voted to change the way host cities or countries are chosen. According to the new rules, the Olympics may be hosted in several cities or countries at the same time. Host cities may be invited or they may be chosen even without competition.

The change came after the IOC, which is based in Lausanne, Switzerland, has been angered by recent public votes in Canada that refused to hold the Olympics after they had been awarded the right to host the Games. Now, the IOC wants cities and countries to show public support before being invited to host the games.

“We cannot continue to be damaged as we have in the past,” IOC member John Coates said. He presented the changes, some of which have already been tested in the 2026 Winter Games competition.

On Monday, Milan and Cortina in northern Italy beat a joint offer(提议) by Stockholm, Sweden and Are, Latvia, for the 2026 Winter Games. Northern Italy’s public showed strong support for the Games, IOC studies showed.

Future Olympic cities will be required to use existing and temporary(临时的) sports places. Costly building projects will not be encouraged in order to lower the burdens on the hosting countries and their people who often face higher taxes.

In fact, there might be no competition at all. The new process will create two Olympic committees—each for Summer and Winter Games—that will choose one or more countries. If there is more than one country competing for the Games, they would be permitted to be joint hosts at the same time. IOC President Thomas Bach said that IOC wants to avoid “too many losers”.

He also said IOC will not make the process difficult, and guarantees(保证金) will not be required long before the Games.

“Once you make a decision on the host city, millions of people start to make bussiness plans based on that and hundreds of millions of dollars will be spent,” he added.

28. The IOC’s new rules require that countries or cities have to _____.

- A. give guarantees long before the Games
- B. join other countries or cities to host the Olympics

30. Which country will hold the 2026 Winter Games?

- A. Italy.

A group of scientists are hurrying to document and protect the ancient ruins along Puerto Rico’s coasts. They are working as fast as they can before rising sea levels destroy a large part of the island’s history.

The work started in August 2017. With the help of 3D imaging and other advanced technologies, the scientists have explored a large piece of land along Puerto Rico’s north coast and identified an ancient ceremonial(仪式的) center used by the Taino Indians. About 2,000 years ago, the Tainoes lived on many islands in the Caribbean Sea. But after the arrival of Christopher Columbus and other Europeans, they were all killed.

Scientists also found a large living place just in the east of the site, which is seriously endangered by rising sea levels and other natural disasters. Puerto Rico's Department of Natural Resources has said the sea level around the island is rising by more than 3 mm every year.

However, climate change has more immediate effects. These include the destruction of the Puerto Rico coastline and natural habitats by storms.

Warmer temperatures in the Caribbean increase the number and strength of storms and Puerto Rico faces the possibility of storms every year for six months during the Atlantic hurricane season. Hurricane Maria had already washed away part of its history.

Scientists are now trying to find out how badly the hurricanes and loss of land have affected the heritage site they are studying. Eric Lo is an engineer who flew to Puerto Rico in August 2017 to start the project one month before Maria struck the island. Lo was surprised at what he saw when he returned months later.

"Pieces of land where I stood do not exist anymore. They are underwater," he said.

32. Where did the scientists find the ancient Taino Indians' living place?

- A. Under the Caribbean Sea.
- B. In a European country.
- C. On Puerto Rico's north coast.
- D. Along Puerto Rico's east coast.

33. Why had the Tainoes disappeared from the islands in the Caribbean Sea?

- A. They were killed by the Europeans.
- B. They were destroyed by Hurricane Maria.
- C. They were driven away by rising sea levels.
- D. They were moved away by their government.

34. What surprised Eric Lo when he returned to Puerto Rico?

- A. More loss of land.
- B. A ceremonial center.
- C. The number of storms.
- D. The history of the island.

35. Which of the following can be the best title for the text?

- A. The Obvious Effects of Global Climate Change
- B. Efforts to Protect Puerto Rico's Coastal Heritage
- C. New Discoveries of Ancient Taino Indians' Ruins
- D. Technologies Used to Identify the Ancient Ruins

第二节 (共 5 小题;每小题 2.5 分,满分 12.5 分)

阅读下面短文,从短文后的选项中选出可以填入空白处的最佳选项。选项中有两项为多余选项。

Why do more and more people show interest in cultural heritage(遗产) these days? 36 Maybe it's because technology has made it easier to learn about our ancestors(祖先). Here's a list of several ways to connect you with your cultural heritage.

If you aren't sure where your ancestors are from, a DNA test can be a good way. Companies like Family Tree DNA will sell you a testing box that teaches you what to do. 37 There have been concerns about the safety—your DNA information sold to companies without asking you. If a DNA test isn't your cup of tea, you can try several other ways.

One of the most enjoyable ways to learn about your family tree is sitting down with an older relative to chat about it. Talk in person with a grandparent, great-grandparent, or any other family member who's been around long enough to tell you about the past. 38

39 So one way to bridge the gap between your family's past and present is to cook a traditional meal. If your ancestors are from Italy, you can learn how to host an Italian dinner party. Invite some relatives to share your common heritage over a meal.

Learning a language is a unique way to connect with your ancestors and culture. 40 Once you've known the language of your ancestors, you may want to get in touch with your heritage by picking up the basics of that language.

- A. Food is part of your cultural heritage.
- B. This is a great way to learn about your ancestors.
- C. You generally get your test results within a few weeks.
- D. It can also let you meet new people and have more experiences.

- E. Food can help you feel like you’re truly experiencing that culture.
- F. People are eager to learn as much about our ancestors as possible.
- G. Perhaps they want to have a sense of belonging in our globalized world.

第二节 （满分 25 分）

Eliot Middleton is a restaurant owner and he is also a trained mechanic(机修工). When he isn't busy cooking in his restaurant, he is fixing broken cars in his yard. For seventeen years, Eliot worked with his father in his mechanic shop. Eliot started to help those in need in his community after the sudden death of his father. Most of the people Eliot helped were single mothers, the old and the unemployed(失业的) who needed reliable(可靠的) transportation.

Repaired used cars were hard to find and expensive. This made life difficult for families who lived in the community where public transportation was hard to get. They had limited choices of where and how they could travel. When their cars broke down, they often found themselves unable to afford a new one right away. They must depend on others for travel. They lacked the freedom to visit relatives, go to job interviews, attend medical appointments and sometimes even get to work.

“There is no public transportation or taxis,” said Eliot, describing his South community. “They can't walk 40~60 miles to do great jobs, so they have to do small jobs that pay well below what they need to survive,” he noted.

His goal was to help those who were seeking better opportunities but found that a lack of reliable transportation held them back. He said his community was filled with good and hard-working people often forgotten by society. He wondered how to find a way to combine his love of cars with helping others.
